

It Pays to Care

An imperative for change and call to action

Thanks to

---

It pays to care

- A drive to promote national discussion about fair and efficient workers compensation schemes
- Underpinned by the biopsychosocial framework
- Strong evidence early good quality care helps people and saves money
- Seek to increase the focus on science and evidence in work injury schemes

– IPTC engagement and advocacy program

- First of three symposia planned for this year
- 2022 focus on scheme leaders, strong level of support and engagement
- 2023 working with claims organisations, and inform scheme participants
- Love your support and input

Early psychosocial triage and matched care

- Much promise from this initiative
- Key principles to follow: eg early and systematic
- Many implementation options

- Need knowledge, skills, ability to modify
- Evaluate and improve

– Aims of today

- Improve knowledge and understanding of BPS management, and confidence to implement
- Highlight the many different ways orgs have implemented
- Help introduce systems that improve outcomes AND assist CMs
- Sharing in a collegiate environment, with possibility of ongoing collaboration
- Build momentum to tackle problems together

– What we'd like from you

- Be open and collegiate
- Ask any questions
- Get to know each other
- Think about what may be valuable for you post the symposium

Overview of today

Triage & Assessment

- 9.50 Dr Pam Garton:
- 10.10 Panel Discussion:

Matched Care

- 11.20 Prof. Michael Nicholas:
- 11.40 Panel Discussion: Matched Care

- 1.10 Dr Catherine Day (SIRA): The Regulator's Perspective
- 1.30 Dr Sarah Oxford (ISCRR): Program Evaluation
- 1.50 Table Group Sharing (Sharon Stratford facilitating)
- 3.30 Wrap Up: Mary & Sharon