

Experienced Occupational Health Nurse in search of variety

- An exciting opportunity for the right candidate
- Manage a small team of talented occupational health nurses
- Project Manage delivery of on site client services e.g health surveillance

IMMEX is a specialised occupational medicine and injury management practice that has some of the major private and public companies in NSW as its valued clients. They look to us to provide the very best of care to their employees.

An opportunity has arisen for an experienced occupational health nurse looking for variety in the working environment. The role is responsible for managing staff, customer care & clinical quality. The ideal candidate has experience in Occupational Health, managing staff, client liaison, customer service, and is familiar with treatment room protocols, health surveillance programs and pre-employment assessments.

You will be the first point of contact for new clients wanting to engage our services, organise and manage the delivery of health surveillance and other projects at client premises and lead a small but dedicated team of in-house occupational nurses. You must be organised, able to multitask, work to deadlines and have strong attention to detail. You will possess the ability to work autonomously as well as in a team environment.

The role is full-time, Monday to Friday. No after hours or shift requirement.

You must be an AHPRA registered RN with a minimum of 5 years' experience.

Responsibilities include but are not limited to:

- Client liaison and relationship management
- Defining requirements and quoting for services
- Organising and overseeing services provided on client premises
- Managing a small nursing team
- Driving improvements in the nursing area
- Ensuring quality clinical service provision by the nursing team

Applications should be by CV and cover letter detailing your experience as it relates to the above criteria. You must be able to work in this country without restriction.
