About Dr Ross Littlewood

Dr Littlewood has been practicing in the Midland area since 1987, specialising in comprehensive adult ophthalmic care. His special interests include unusual cataract cases, third world ophthalmology and colour vision testing. Dr Littlewood has worked in the Middle East, West Indies, Timor Leste, and the north west of WA where advanced pathology is relatively common.

Dr Littlewood has published two papers on colour vision and presented a paper at the International research group on colour vision deficiencies conference. He has designed and recently evaluated a novel test for tritan discrimination. Dr Littlewood currently operates a specialist private practice clinic offering a range of clinical colour vision assessments.
